"Denco Defiantly Digs Deep Despite Dreaded Disorder"

Denco was not feeling much chop last week but that did not stop him from setting not one but two trails. Eyebrow made a guest appearance in full uniform to ensure that we had law and order.

Off we went the runners going one way and the walkers the other. The Brute set off at his usual mean pace grumbling all the way that HJ and I do too much talkin' and not enough walkin'. At least we talk to each other Brutus, and not just to ourselves.

Denco must have been a bit worried that we wouldn't find our way back to the bucket in the dark so he lit a fire. A big fire. And even though he was feeling poorly he still managed to rustle up an outstanding Malaysian chowder.

Magoo managed DHOTW for tripping over himself amongst the bones. Guest appearances from Eyebrow and Grasshopper earned them both a down down, and Twiggy had a sip after finally reclaiming his bag. The festivities would not have been complete without the sparklers provided by Hooka, and thanks Twiggy for lighting my fire.

Watch what you say

A guy goes to the supermarket and notices a beautiful blond woman wave at him and says hello. He's rather taken aback, because he can't place where he knows her from. So he says, "Do you know me?"

To which she replies, "I think you're the father of one of my kids."

Now his mind travels back to the only time he has ever been unfaithful to his wife and says, "My God, are you the stripper from my bachelor party that I laid on the pool table with all my buddies watching, while your partner whipped my butt with wet celery???"

She looks into his eyes and calmly says, "No, I'm your son's math teacher."

EMOTION PARTY

A guy decides to have a party where his guests are asked to come as different emotions e.g. fear etc.

On the night of the party, the first guest arrives and the host opens the door to see a guy covered in green paint with the letters N and V painted on his chest.

He says to this guy, "Wow, great outfit, what emotion have you come as?"

The guy says, "I'm green with NV".

The host replies, "Brilliant come on In and have a drink."

A few minutes later the next guest arrives and the host opens the door to see a woman covered in a pink body stocking with a feather boa wrapped around her most intimate parts.

He says to this woman, "Wow, great outfit, what emotion have you come as?"

She replies, "I'm tickled pink."

The host says, "I love it, come on in and join the party."

A couple of minutes later the doorbell goes for the third time, and the host opens the door to see two Irish blokes, Paddy and Mick, standing stark naked, one with his willy in bowl of custard and the other with his willy stuck in a pear.

The host is really shocked and says, "What the hell are you both doing?"

You could get arrested standing like that out there in the street. Anyhow what emotion is this supposed to be?"

Paddy replies, "Welllll, Oim fokn discustard,..... and Mick here has just come in despair

Seven-legged lamb born - World - brisbanetimes.com.au

A six-day-old lamb at a veterinary clinic on New Zealand's South Island bleats like any other newborn sheep, but is rather different in other ways. This lamb has seven legs, local media reported today. Two of the extra legs hang uselessly behind the lamb's forelegs. The animal has three hind legs, one of them with two hoofs. It walks using its two forelegs and three hind legs, the Ashburton Guardian newspaper said.

The lamb was born last Friday on the farm of Dave and Di Callaghan. Mr Callaghan said he was surprised to find the creature, born with a twin, walking round in the paddock with its mother and normal twin sibling. "I have never seen anything like that," he said.

Veterinarian Steve Williams at the Canterbury Vets clinic in the rural town of Methven said he believed an error during embryo formation had resulted in the lamb being born polydactyl - with many legs - a condition that occurs once in several million sheep.

He said the lamb was also hermaphrodite and missing a portion of its bowel so was unable to pass faeces and would have to be destroyed.

"To keep it alive is probably inhumane really," he said.
